CAUTION

POWER MAY BE ACCOMPANIED BY SUSAN EDITH SAXE. FBI IDENTIFICATION ORDER 403. BOTH MAY BE ARMED AND SHOULD BE CONSIDERED VERY DANGEROUS.

Wanted poster on Susan Saxe and Katherine Power.

Women radicals— the FBI wanted list grows

The wanted poster distributed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation reads: "Caution ... both may be armed and should be considered very dangerous."

This description is not on your normal hardened criminal. It covers two 24-year-old women, self-styled revolutionaries, who have made the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

They are among a growing number of such women involved in violence.

The latest to surface are the three gun-toting women charged in the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army's robbery of a San Francisco bank.

This is the group which abducted newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst. Authorities are now looking into the possibility that Miss Hearst has actually joined the SLA and was involved in the bank robbery, too.

The three women suspects in the SLA robbery are Camilla Christine Hall, 29, a graduate of the University of Minnesota and a former social worker; Nancy Ling Perry, 26, a former student and dancer; and Patricia Michelle Soltysik, 24, known as a prison reformer and militant feminist.

But as far as is known, the SLA women still have far to go to match the record of two forerunners, Susan Edith Saxe and Katherine Ann Power, the two "most wanted" fugitives.

The former students at Brandeis University have been sought since 1970 in connection with a series of crimes, including the murder of a Boston policeman.

They were reputed members of a radical, revolutionary group dedicated to attacking the U.S. military system and undermining police powers.

They were charged with the $26,585 robbery of a Boston bank, the $6,240 robbery of a Philadelphia bank and theft of government property from a National Guard Armory at Newburyport, Mass., as well as the killing of the policeman.

While three male suspects in the crimes have been arrested, the two women have been will o' the wisps in evading capture.

Cathlyn Wilkerson, the daughter of a prominent New York advertising executive, also disappeared after stumbling from the ruins of an illicit "bomb factory" which blew up in Greenwich Village in March, 1970.

Authorities said Miss Wilkerson had turned her father's 4-story townhouse over to her comrades in the violent Weathermen chapter of Students for Democratic Action. Police said they were using the cellar to make bombs.

Among the three persons killed in the explosion was Diana Oughton, a young woman identified as a member of the Weathermen by authorities.

DL 91-5015

these subjects considered the use of the aliases, JOANNA HISS and DEBBIE KAPLAN; however, no information has ever been developed to show they adopted these false identities.

In reviewing their backgrounds, SAXE and POWER showed a strong interest in women's liberation organizations during their attendance at Brandeis University as reported by school associates. In addition, a letter was published in a women's underground newspaper known as "The Rat", New York City, in the latter part of October, 1970, in which SAXE and POWER claimed they had gone underground and were receiving support in connection with their "revolutionary" activities. Further, information was developed that both subjects showed an interest in Students for a Democratic Society and the Black Panther Party prior to their involvement in criminal activities.

Attached and made a part hereof is a copy of a News Release dated 10/17/70, which sets forth the descriptions and background information concerning SAXE and POWER.

All Agents are requested to re-alert their informants concerning captioned subjects, particularly those informants having contacts with radical elements.

KATHERINE ANN POWER

Susan Edith Saxe and Katherine Ann Power, reputed members of a radical revolutionary group dedicated to attacking the U. S. military system and undermining police powers and charged in the murder of a Boston policeman following a bank robbery are on the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

Both former students at Brandeis University, Saxe and Power allegedly joined three male parolees in the $26,585 September 23, 1970, robbery of a Boston bank after which a Boston police officer was shot to death by one of the men.

Federal warrants issued at Boston, charge Saxe and Power with unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for murder and with theft of Government property from a National Guard Armory at Newburyport, Massachusetts. Also, Federal warrants issued at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, charge them with participation in the $6,240 September 1, 1970, armed robbery of a Philadelphia bank during which one of the robbers reportedly attempted to ignite a "Molotov cocktail."

Saxe graduated magna cum laude from Brandeis University in June, 1970, and Power was a senior there this year. Both reportedly belonged, along with the three male bank robbery suspects, since apprehended, to a small, revolutionary-type organization which, in addition to attacking military and police forces, reportedly advocated violent attacks against established society and robberies to further their aims and provide financial contributions to such organizations as the Black Panther Party.

Both white Americans, Saxe, born on January 18, 1949, at Hartford, Connecticut, is 5'4" to 5'5" tall, weighs 160 pounds, has brown hair, hazel eyes, a medium complexion, and a heavy build. She may wear contact lenses. Power, born at Denver, Colorado, on January 25, 1949, is 5' tall, weighs from 145 to 150 pounds, has hazel eyes, light brown hair which may be dyed black, a medium complexion, and a stocky build. She has a pockmark on her left cheek, an appendectomy scar and a large scar on her abdomen.

Consider both Saxe and Power armed and very dangerous. Report any information concerning them to the nearest FBI Office.

"TEN MOST WANTED FUGITIVES" PROGRAM

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has recently confirmed that Susan Edith Saxe and Katherine Ann Power, both of whom are currently on the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives," lived and worked in Lexington, Kentucky, for several months in 1974.

Employing a variety of investigative techniques which included handwriting analysis, latent fingerprint comparisons, and photographic identifications, the FBI established that Saxe, using variations of the alias, Lenora Jordan Paley, and Power, using variations of the alias, Maureen Sheila Kelly, successfully utilized their assumed identities to obtain residence and employment in Lexington, Kentucky, until their departure sometime in late September or early October, 1974.

Saxe and Power, who have reportedly held a variety of jobs, were most recently known to be employed in Lexington, Kentucky. Power worked as a telephone receptionist and Saxe was employed by a health food restaurant. With respect to their employment, Saxe used Social Security Account Number 040-58-8911 and Power, Social Security Account Number 003-46-5275. Power listed her date of birth as February 8, 1950.

Saxe and Power, both former students at Brandeis University, Waltham, Massachusetts, are being sought by the FBI for unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for the crimes of murder, theft of Government property, and bank robbery.

The female duo, reputedly espousing the cause of an obscure revolutionary group which advocated attacks on the military establishment and police community, allegedly joined forces with three male parolees from Massachusetts to rob the State Street Bank and Trust Company, Boston, Massachusetts, on September 23, 1970. Having successfully seized over $26,000 in loot, the fleeing band of robbers was confronted by a Boston, Massachusetts, police officer, who responded to the crime scene. A hail of sub-machinegun fire, which savagely cut down and killed the officer, terminated the encounter. On September 24, 1970, Federal warrants were issued at Boston, Massachusetts, charging both Saxe and Power with unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for murder. Their accomplices in these crimes were subsequently apprehended.

Additionally, Saxe and Power were charged in Federal warrants issued at Boston on September 25, 1970, with theft of Government property from a National Guard Armory in Newbury Port, Massachusetts.

Other outstanding warrants issued at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on October 1, 1970, charged Saxe and Power for their alleged participation in the September 1, 1970, robbery of the Bell Federal Savings and Loan Association, Philadelphia, where over $6,000 in loot was taken at gun point.

Saxe, a white female American who was born on January 18, 1949, at Hartford, Connecticut, is 5'4" to 5'5" tall, weighs 160 pounds, has brown hair, hazel eyes, medium complexion, and a heavy build. She may be wearing contact lenses.

Power, a white female American who was born in Denver, Colorado, on January 25, 1949, is 5' tall, weighs from 145 to 150 pounds, has hazel eyes, light brown hair which was recently described as "dirty blonde" and worn short, a medium complexion, and a stocky build. She has a pockmark on her left cheek, an appendectomy scar, and a large scar on her abdomen. Both Saxe and Power have been recently described as having lost considerable weight, perhaps as much as 20 pounds.

Both should be considered armed and dangerous.

Anyone with any information concerning either of these fugitives, who may be traveling together, should promptly contact the nearest FBI office, the telephone number of which may be found on the first page of most local telephone directories.

FBI steps up search for 2 fugitive women

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The FBI has intensified its search for two women on its list of 10 most-wanted fugitives after learning they held jobs last year in Kentucky.

Susan Edith Saxe of Albany, N.Y., and Katherine Ann Power, both former students at Brandeis University in Waltham, Mass., were placed on the most-wanted list on Oct. 17, 1970.

Saxe and Power, alleged members of a revolutionary group that advocated attacks on police and military establishments, are wanted in connection with a Boston bank robbery in which a policeman was killed in sub-machine gun fire and a savings and loan holdup in Philadelphia.

The FBI issued new most-wanted posters on the two women after verifying that Saxe worked in a health food restaurant and Power worked as a telephone receptionist in Lexington, Ky., for several months before leaving in September or October, the FBI said. The FBI said it verified the presence of the two fugitives in Lexington through handwriting analysis, comparing fingerprints and making photographic identifications.

Saxe used the alias Lenora Jordan Paley and Power, of Denver, Colo., used variations of the alias Maureen Sheila Kelly, the FBI said. Saxe used the Social Security number 040-58-8991 and Power used 003-46-5270, the FBI said.

The FBI said both should be considered armed and dangerous.

FBI nabs radical

Saxe arrest latest of several

By DAVE GOLDBERG

For five years, they seemed almost immune from capture, those 1960s New Left radicals who often seemed so proud of making their way onto the FBI's 10 Most Wanted list. But part of the facade is cracking.

In the latest in a series of such arrests, FBI agents Thursday night picked up Susan Edith Saxe, wanted since 1970 on charges of interstate flight to avoid prosecution for the murder of a Boston police officer shot following a bank robbery.

She was the fourth political radical taken into custody since last Nov. 14 after five years in which only one major radical fugitive had been arrested.

Miss Saxe, 26, of Albany, N. Y., was captured on a downtown Philadelphia street after a policeman recognized her from photographs and a description that had been reissued Thursday by the FBI.

Authorities said Miss Saxe was believed to be in the area and that is why the new photos had been released.

Police said she was unarmed and did not resist arrest, although she "was quivering, she was nervous as hell."

The nucleus of the fugitive left — the Weather Underground — remains at large, and has, in fact, become more vocal. From all accounts, it is a highly disciplined, highly organized underground group that has been impossible for authorities to infiltrate.

In recent months, it has claimed responsibility for a number of bombings.

For a long time, the only major radical arrested had been Karleton L. Armstrong, one of four men sought in a fatal bombing at the University of Wisconsin. He was convicted of second degree murder and sentenced to 23 years in prison.

But lately, there have been these developments:

• Jane Albert, 27, who jumped bail after being charged in a series of bombings in New York City in 1969 and 1970, turned herself in on Nov. 14. She pleaded guilty to conspiracy and bail jumping and has returned to Vermont months in prison.

• Patricia Swinton, 33, alleged to be a member of the same bomb ring, was arrested March 12 in the Brattleboro, same bomb ring, was arrested March 12 in the Brattleboro, Vt. health food store where she worked as a clerk. She was released in $200,000 bail and has returned to Vermont.

• Cameron D. Bishop, the first identifiable radical to be placed on the 10 Most Wanted List, was arrested March 12 in East Greenwich, R. I., in a car which police said contained a small arsenal of weapons. He had been sought since April, 1969 on charges of dynamiting four transmission towers in Colorado that supplied power to defense plants.

Saxe trial witness on loose

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The government had a problem today at the start of the bank robbery trial of self-styled radical Susan E. Saxe — its star witness was missing.

The witness, Robert Valeri, 26, of Somerville, Mass., escaped from the Chester County Prison in West Chester, Pa., last Wednesday.

Ms. Saxe, 26, of Albany, N. Y., on the FBI's 10 most wanted list for nearly five years, was facing trial on charges lodged in connection with a $6,240 robbery of a Philadelphia bank Sept. 1, 1970.

She also is accused, along with Valeri, of a $26,000 robbery of a Boston bank in which a policeman was slain in 1970.

Valeri, who already has pleaded guilty, was serving a sentence for a Chicago bank robbery when he was brought to Pennsylvania for the trial.

The prosecution would not say what effect Valeri's escape would have on the trial.

The government has charged Ms. Saxe and two accomplices engineered the robbery of a Bell Savings and Loan Association office here. The accomplices, indicated in 1971, are Stanley R. Bond, 26, of Cambridge, Mass., and Katherine Ann Power, 26, of Denver.

Bond, convicted of the holdup, accidentally blew himself up making a bomb in Walpole, Mass., State Prison in 1973.

Ms. Power, also on the FBI's 10 most wanted list, is being sought in connection with the Boston holdup.

Ms. Saxe was arrested on a Philadelphia street March 27.

Susan Saxe Enters Guilty Plea

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—A defiant revolutionary Susan E. Saxe pledging to becoming "even more radical," entered a surprise plea of guilty Monday to federal bank robbery charges in exchange for a 10-year prison sentence.

Ms. Saxe, 26, a former Brandeis University honor student who was on the FBI's 10 Most Wanted List for five years, said the plea bargaining guaranteed her continued silence to protect any co-conspirators.

In a statement read in court after she entered the surprise plea shortly before the start of her trial in federal court, Ms. Saxe, of Albany, N.Y., said it was based "on the government's understanding that I will give them nothing ever, not in 20 years, not in 100."

"I AM NOT and never will be a collaborator," Ms. Saxe said. The lengthy statement she made was later distributed to reporters by a friend, Bryna Aronson, 25.

The 10-year prison sentence is for a Sept. 1, 1970 holdup in which $6,240 was taken from the Bell Savings and Loan Association here.

Under the agreement Ms. Saxe also will receive a 2-year concurrent term when she pleads guilty to the looting of a National Guard Armory in Newburyport, Mass., three weeks after the Philadelphia holdup.

The government also charged two others in the Philadelphia bank robbery, Stanley R. Bond, 26, of Cambridge, Mass., and Katherine Ann Power, 26, of Denver.

Bond, convicted of the holdup, accidentally blew himself up making a bomb in Walpole, Mass., state prison in 1973.

Miss Power, also on the FBI's 10 Most Wanted List, is still a fugitive.

Government attorney Carmen Masuti asked U.S. District Court Judge Alfred L. Luongo to defer the sentences pending conclusion of proceedings against Ms. Saxe in Massachusetts, where she is also accused in a $26,000 robbery of a Boston bank on Sept. 30, 1970, in which a city policeman was killed.

THE SENTENCES will run concurrently with any that might be imposed against Ms. Saxe as a result of any prosecutions in Massachusetts.

The plea bargaining also called for the government to drop any prosecutions against Ms. Saxe in connection with any involvement in bank robberies in Evanston, Ill., and Beverly Hills, Calif., in 1970.

Saxe Trial Begins Today

PHILADELPHIA, Penn. (AP) — Susan Edith Saxe, a 26-year-old antiwar revolutionary, accused of murdering a Boston policeman, goes on trial in federal court Monday on charges of participating in a 1970 Philadelphia bank holdup.

The policeman was killed during a second 1970 bank robbery, and Massachusetts officials say she'll probably stand trial for that later this year.

Monday's trial of the former Albany, N.Y., resident and Brandeis University honor graduate centers on the theft of $8,240 from the Bell Savings and Loan Association here on Sept. 1, 1970.

WITNESSES ALLEGE Ms. Saxe remained outside holding a gasoline bomb while Stanley Bond, of Cambridge, Mass., robbed the bank. Bond, who was convicted in the holdup, was killed in prison while attempting to make a bomb.

The Boston robbery occurred 25 days later. Patrolman Francis Schroeder, the father of nine children, was shot in the getaway. Bond, William Gilday, 45, of Worcester, Mass., and Robert Valeri, 28, Somerville, Mass., were convicted in the holdup.

Still sought in the Boston case and also named as the driver of the getaway car in the Philadelphia holdup, is Katherine Ann Power, 25, Denver, Colo., the only woman now on the FBI's "10" most wanted list.

Valeri, who was scheduled to be a key prosecution witness against Ms. Saxe, is now a fugitive.

VALERIE HAD testified against the other two men at their 1971 Boston trial and also reportedly cooperated with the officials in the prosecution of an Evanston, Ill., bank robbery committed in the interval between the Philadelphia and Boston robberies. Ms. Saxe also was indicated in the Evanston robbery.

Valeri, brought here from an Oklahoma jail in April and lodged in a nearby Chester County prison farm under a false name, walked away last Wednesday.

The escape may have dealt a serious blow to the government case — an FBI spokesman said "this certainly reduces the chance for conviction" — but prosecutors said there would be no effort to seek postponement of the trial.

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Susan Saxe ... Charged in bank robbery.

"We want to generate as little publicity as possible," said U.S. Atty. Robert E. J. Curran. "It's going to be difficult enough to get a jury that hasn't heard about the Saxe case."

Authorities allege the three holdups were to finance revolutionary activities of a group of radicals known as the Weather Underground, then violently protesting American involvement in Vietnam and Cambodia. They say Ms. Saxe purchased the guns and ammunition in Portland, Ore., where she ostensibly had gone to pursue a master's degree.

Ms. Saxe's chief counsel is Catherine Roraback, a 54-year-old New Haven, Conn., lawyer who has defended some of America's most controversial figures. Among them were Black Panther leader Bobby Seale and Indians involved in the Wounded Knee, S.D., occupation.
